BYU professor speaks about role of United Nations in world peace

Following World War II, with the purpose of facilitating international communications by radio, the International Telecommunications Union (ITU) was established. The ITU is a specialized agency of the United Nations, and its primary objective is to coordinate and regulate radio communications around the world. The ITU is composed of three main sectors: the Radiocommunication Sector (ITU-R), the Telecommunication Standardization Sector (ITU-T), and the Telecommunication Development Sector (ITU-D). The ITU-R is responsible for the study and coordination of radio frequencies, while the ITU-T is responsible for the development of international standards for telecommunications. The ITU-D is responsible for the development of telecommunications infrastructure and the promotion of telecommunications development in developing countries. The ITU is a unique organization that brings together governments, industry, and academia to work on global telecommunications issues. It is a member of the United Nations system and is a part of the World Trade Organization (WTO). The ITU is a key player in the global telecommunications industry and is essential for the functioning of the global telecommunications system.

Israeli army moves from Gaza headquarters

DEIR EL BALAH, Occupied Gaza Strip — Monday was moving day for the Israeli army at their Gaza Strip headquarters.

After 27 years of occupation, changes demanded by Palestinian leaders are finally starting to take shape, not only here but at other sites in the Gaza Strip and West Bank town of Jericho.

For young militants dismantling bases it is too little to be convincing. Soldiers still patrol the streets, and Palestinians remain wary of Israel's intentions, especially since the army is building new outposts to guard Jewish settlements that will not be uprooted.

Even though the moving was a visible sign of Israel's intent to leave, Palestinian youths with slingshots lobbed stones that bounced off the walls and olive drab jeeps. Troops gave chase, firing plastic bullets and tear gas, wounding two Arabs.

"We don't want peace. There will be stones every day," shouted the youths. Some soldiers appeared bewildered about why the Palestinians were throwing stones while they were pulling out. "They don't want us to leave?" asked one.

Maj. Udi, a military commander in Deir el Balah, said his unit was being moved to guard Gush Katif in Gaza, where more than 4,000 Jewish settlers live.

U.N. fights helplessness in Bosnian war site

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — Gorazde, the city that has been the site of some of the Bosnian war's fiercest fighting and the United Nations' greatest frustrations, was again under attack Monday, Bosnian radio reported.

Lt. Gen. Sir Michael Rose, the U.N. commander in Bosnia, is planning to visit Gorazde on Wednesday, but it is not clear what he can accomplish. With only four military observers in Gorazde, the United Nations has appeared helpless as Bosnian Serbs shell the city of 65,000 people.

Rose's planned visit was announced by U.N. spokesman Maj. Rob Annink after Rose met with Bosnian Serb officials in their stronghold of Pale.

Rose had recently tried to play down the possibility of Gorazde falling, and may have been stung when the city's mayor, Ismet Briga, on Sunday invited him to visit "and witness the suffering of its citizens."

Study of records rains on statistical parade

WASHINGTON — America's rainfall records are all wet. Well, actually, not wet enough.

The United States gets about 9 percent more rain and snow than the official records indicate, say Pavel Y. Groisman and David R. Legates in the Bulletin of the American Meteorological Society.

The climate records, which go back about a century, are widely used in studies of possible global warming and other questions of changing conditions. And Groisman and Legates expressed concern that relying on faulty historical figures may produce misleading results.

Researchers at the National Climatic Data Center in Asheville, N.C., are trying to develop a system that can be used to correct the rainfall data, Groisman said in a telephone interview.

Groisman, currently working at the center, is affiliated with the State Hydrological Institute in St. Petersburg, Russia. Legates is at the University of Oklahoma.

Out-of-town visitor assaulted in Provo

A 15-year-old girl was sexually assaulted at a Provo apartment Sunday morning, and the assailant is still at large, police say.

The assault happened in the area of 600 N. 300 East in Provo.

"The victim was a 15-year-old female visiting from Iowa," said Capt. George Pierpont of the Provo Police Department.

Police said the girl was awakened at 5:30 a.m. Sunday morning by a man standing by her bed.

"The assailant was described as being a white male anywhere from 20-30 years old with short dark hair and possibly a two or three days worth of beard growth," Pierpont said.

"The suspect had a knife and held it to the victims throat," Pierpont said.

Police said that the girl began to fight with her assailant and was able to kick him several times and started to scream.

They said that the girl was finally able to get away from her attacker and fled the apartment. Police said the girl escaped relatively unharmed.

Police said that the attacker was able to leave and they have no suspects at this time.

4 Provo men charged in canyon incident

2 officers hit by car but not seriously injured

By KYLE LARSON
Universe Staff Writer

A Provo man was arrested and charged with aggravated assault and driving under the influence in Rock Canyon Friday night, and three other Provo men were charged with illegal possession of marijuana in the incident.

Police said the incident took place at 11:50 p.m. after officers had been patrolling the area in response to wild parties occurring nearby.

"Our officers spotted a vehicle parked up in Rock Canyon with four individuals in it," said Capt. George Pierpont of the Provo Police Department.

"As they approached, they could see them passing a pipe around."

Police said the individuals spotted the officers and the driver started the vehicle and tried to run the officers down.

"Officer Walker was hit first while Officer Savage was down the road a little bit," Pierpont said.

Officer Savage saw the car coming and tried to get the vehicle to stop as well but was hit by the vehicle, police said.

"After hitting the officers, they took off out of the area but were stopped by one of the other officers and arrested," Pierpont said.

Pierpont said the officers were not hit head-on by the vehicle but the driver was able to hit their legs as they attempted to get out of the way.

"Our officers were smart enough to get out of the way and there were no serious injuries," Pierpont said.

Police said the driver of the car was Jonathan Alan Updike, 20, living at 1720 N. 425 West No. 2-101 in Provo.

He is charged with driving under the influence of drugs, two counts of aggravated assault on a police officer and possession of marijuana.

Pierpont said the three other individuals in the vehicle will be charged with illegal possession of marijuana.

They were Gregory William Park, 20 of 1772 N. 450 West; Aaron M. Knight, 19, a UVSC student of 750 N. 766 East; and Michael J. Banks, 19, a UVSC student of 1720 N. 425 West No. 101.

Y Days traditions continue, new opportunities to serve

By LANA KNIGHT
Universe Staff Writer

Contrary to what some people may think, Y Days Week is not a social event for all new entering freshmen, but the continuation of traditions and events that were started over 100 years ago.

The tradition started in 1906 when a junior class decided to decorate the mountain with a monument. Soon after, President Brimhall gave approval for the letters "B", "Y" and "D" to be painted on the mountain.

The letters were designed by Professor Ernest D. Partridge.

Over 250 acres of land were purchased and the letters were plotted. The student body got together to whitewash them. After several hours the students had barely succeeded in covering the Y without even attempting to cover the remaining two letters, so they stopped there. From then on a tradition was started as students would climb the mountain to whitewash the Y every year.

It wasn't until 1921 that the Y was made into a block that measured 322 feet by 120 feet. Students and faculty continued to whitewash the Y every year using 500 pounds of salt, 110 bags of lime and 3,000 gallons of water.

Until 1972 a bucket brigade performed the job. After that, a helicopter was hired to take up the lime mixture.

The lighting of the Y started in 1924 and has continued on important days such as Y Days, graduation and Homecoming.

Additional activities started in 1957 when students became involved in community wide clean-up projects such as washing windows, cutting grass and clearing walks.

BEATS FINGERPAINTING: Y students of years past whitewash the Y. Y Days, the event which started the tradition, begins this week.

As a tradition, the Intercollegiate Knights, a campus club, climb up to the Y every year during Y Days and Homecoming to sleep up there and protect it from vandalism.

As Y Days Week begins, several activities have been planned for the students and faculty, including a food drive with all donated items going to the United Way. Canned food items can be taken to the stepdown lounge in the Wilkinson Center throughout the week.

Brigham Awards will be given to honor outstanding students and faculty as well as a Friday night extravaganza, an auction, fashion show and dance.

Finally, on Saturday, organized service projects will be held throughout the valley. Students wishing to sign up for a project or find out additional information about Y Days Week can call 378-3901.

Organ donation week gives students and faculty chance to help others with signature

Most people hate waiting. It is irritating to have to wait for something we really want or feel that we need. We even detest waiting in lines at the grocery store or in the bookstore.

But think how frustrating it would be to be waiting for something as important as a heart or liver. More than 34,000 Americans are currently waiting for organ transplants. Last year, approximately 3,000 people died while waiting. While 18,000 successful organ transplants were performed in 1993, twice that many could have been performed if more people had been willing to donate organs, according to Intermountain Organ Recovery.

Statistics show that organ donation is vital, but people hesitate to fill out donor cards because they are confused between the facts and fiction surrounding organ donation.

Research conducted for Intermountain Organ Recovery indicates many Latter-day Saints believe the Church is against organ donations. This is untrue. In actuality, the Church takes no official position on organ transplants. However, in the February 1988 Ensign, Cecil O. Samuelson Jr., a regional representative and physician, said, "Organ transplantation is one of the true medical wonders of our age."

Many Church members wonder how donating will affect them in the resurrection, but according to Samuelson, organ transplants do not affect a person's resurrection because after death organs return to the earth anyway, and we are promised in the scriptures that our bodies will be restored to perfection and that "even a hair on the head shall not be lost" (Alma 40:23).

Another fear about organ donation is that it will disfigure the donor's body. The organs are removed in an operating room by qualified surgeons. The removal does not affect the appearance of the body, and an open-casket funeral is still possible.

The donor's family is not financially responsible for the cost of organ donation, but the family is still responsible for treatment before death and funeral costs.

Filling out a donor card will not affect the quality of the health care treatment or any efforts to save the potential donor's life. The transplant team is not notified until all possibilities for saving the patient's life have been exhausted.

If someone fills out a donor card and then changes his or her mind, there is no obligation to still be a donor because there is not a national registry. All one needs to do is rip up his or her donor card or cross out the donor section on his or her driver's license.

Thousands of families have been blessed because of organ donations. Recipients of transplants are able to live longer and fuller lives, while grieving families can receive comfort from knowing that some good has come from a tragedy.

This week is Organ Donor Awareness week on campus. Wednesday, President Rex E. Lee and football coach LaVell Edwards will be signing the witnesses line on donor cards. President Lee will be signing cards at 11 a.m. in the Memorial Lounge of the Wilkinson Center. LaVell Edwards will sign cards there at noon.

Please consider signing an organ donation card and telling your family about your wishes. Your signature could save someone's life.

Viewpoint

Do not judge abuse victims

Editors note: The following is a letter submitted to the Daily Universe by a BYU student. The name of the student has been withheld due to the sensitive nature of the topic.

I am writing in response to your front page article, Friday March 24, on victims of sexual abuse.

Like my roommates (who brought the article home and laughed), I am sure that there are many out there who don't understand or have any respect for victims of sexual abuse. They feel that anyone who would sit for 90 minutes and take abuse, without letting anyone know (as the girl in the article), must have "wanted it."

I want to clarify some things. As a survivor of sexual abuse, both in my childhood and as an adult, I feel that the things that I have learned are very important.

One thing I have learned is that once a person has been victimized, through no fault of their own, they tend to remain a victim and attract other abusers. In fact, often, by the time victims get around to reporting an incident, it usually is not their first experience with sexual abuse.

Another important fact I have learned, is a system of defense mechanisms, which the body uses in order to survive potentially dangerous situations.

An example would be repression, where the mind pushes memories just out of consciousness so that one seemingly cannot remember particularly horrible incidents.

An even more common defense mechanism which a body might use is called disassociation. In order for a child's senses not to overload it's body (which would kill him or her), a child inadvertently takes it's mind out of it's body, disassociating it from the body and its senses (in order not to die). If this defense mechanism is the one used in childhood (which we do not consciously choose — our body tries what it thinks will help and then repeats it if it works), it most likely will be repeated by an adult victim.

As awful and hopeless as these patterns seem, they can be undone. After acceptance and a strong desire to overcome, through professional help, one can gain control again, though it is a long and often despairing process.

I myself am still receiving professional help. I also receive ecclesiastical help and encouragement from my bishop and hometeachers. Through the Lord, and with the help of man's tools (which I consider the professional counseling to be), I now know that I can work through these issues and still become a happy and worthy person, who is in charge of her life and her celestial glory.

To all those who do not understand the action or feelings of sexual abuse victims — be glad. It means you have not experienced it. But please do not judge or disrespect the lives of those who have and are facing the affects of this great trial.

All students need trip

To the Editor:

BYUSA and Student Life officials have worked very diligently lately to convince the student body that river rafting trips are necessary for the efficient operation of their organization. I applaud their effort and announce that I am convinced.

While their concept is excellent, I think it needs to be expanded. I assert that not only should our leaders be well trained and cohesive but also that the entire student body needs these same experiences. If we all had scholarships and stipends, then everyone could devote 20 hours a week in service. If we want to eliminate student apathy, everyone needs these same relationship-building experiences.

I suggest that BYU provide a river rafting trip (or similar event) to every student that wants to participate in one. Then we will all be more efficient students and get the graduation time closer to four years.

Shocked by raids

To the Editor:

I would like to thank Timothy Schreiber for bringing to my attention, and to the attention of the whole student body, the Gestapo-like tactics used by the housing security officers (in their early-morning raid of R-hall). I was shocked, to say the least.

I would also like to thank Mr. Schreiber for providing me with the final justification I needed to never donate money to BYU, as long as the administration continues to treat BYU's all-ADULT student body like a group of 10-year-olds. I realize I can go to another school and the LDS Church pays 70 percent of my tuition, but neither of these facts justify the practices of the dorm cops. Rex and Mike Lee, how do you sleep at night? I know — you don't have dorm cops busting down your door at 1:20 in the morning.

'R' you serious

To the Editor:

My comments concern the letter "Two thumbs down" which appeared in Thursday's Readers' Forum. This article is a perfect sample of the closed-minded thinking (or should I say lack of thinking?) that all too often prevails on this campus.

The writer's qualm was elicited by BYU professors suggesting students see the movie "Schindler's List." He purports that because this is an R-rated movie, we as Latter-Day Saints should absolutely not see it, and he is greatly dismayed that "we should be tempted to disobey here at the Lord's University."

I would like to precede my objections to Mr. Rodriguez' remarks by saying that I consider myself a faithful member of the Church, I recently returned from a mission and I am not one to take the words of the prophets lightly.

However, I do not believe that the commandments are meant to be observed without thought or followed blindly. We are given principles which, I believe, the Lord expects us to gain an understanding of, and then apply in our lives. I think that too often members of the Church use "religion" as an excuse not to think. The person who wrote "Two thumbs down" is only one of many such afflicted.

In the case of movies, we have been advised not to see R-rated movies. Now, instead of paying so much attention to that letter "R," maybe we should expand our minds a bit and ask: Why should we not see these movies?

The reason is because they promote ideas and values contrary to our own and by seeing them we are led away from our goal of spirituality.

Next, let us take this principle and apply it. In doing so, I think we will find that we veer away from a lot more movies than just those with an R rating. I have seen incorrect values displayed in more than a few PG or PG-13 movies. Once again, let's apply this principle to those nasty R-rated flicks. Generally speaking, a movie that is given an "R" rating contains material that we should not be viewing. But there are times when a film is rated-R because the theme would not be understood by nor be interesting to a younger audience. However, there are such films which, despite their rating, do not display wrong values and are actually quite uplifting. In fact, these films on occasion appear in BYU's very own International Cinema.

I am not going to say whether or not one should see a certain movie. My opinion is that we should spend more time considering, pondering and seeking to understand the principles given to us and then apply them in our lives. I imagine we'll all come up with something a little different, because we all differ and the gospel is very personal. That is the beauty of it.

If you decide it goes against your conscience to see "Schindler's List," then you shouldn't see it. But lose the "holier than thou" attitude and be mindful of passing judgment upon those who felt it worthwhile to see this movie. I chose to see it, and can honestly say that I am better for it.

I leave you with one last question. Considering those who are choosing between seeing "PG" "Naked Gun 33 1/3" or "Schindler's List," who will come out the better?

Ration tickets

To the Editor:

As everyone is aware, many problems exist at this University. After all, we do live in a terrestrial world. Yet, I am not writing to complain about the yogurt found on campus, whether or not I can realistically graduate in four years, the hand-stamp at the RB, or the BYU off-campus housing code. I really don't care about wet sidewalks, I enjoy eating red meat, I'm not going to discuss the evils or benefits of the Clintons' health care reform, I am not going to complain about the BYU football or basketball team, and I would not even dare mention cutting out some GE classes.

So this letter is not a rebuttal to someone else's rebuttal. These are trivial matters, yet I have been bothered by a far more serious problem that affects us all at this excellent school — something must be done about the Varsity Theater's method of mass ticket sales for certain enormously popular movies to the first handful of students in line!

Now before anyone tells me to "just attend another college if I don't like it here since there are thousands of tithe-paying students who would love to take my place," let me first express my gratitude and enjoyment at the Varsity Theaters for the fine entertainment they offer. They offer a great variety of movies to see, are located on campus close to all students and have unbeatable prices. But I have found it extremely annoying to try and buy tickets to say, Monty Python's "The Holy Grail," and after waiting in line for several hours, miss out because they just happened to sell fifty tickets to the first person in line for his friends, two hundred to the second for his or her ward, and so on. This is not ethical, nor is it fair, even if the movie fans are in line at 6:00 am and take shifts with their friends to wait in line. My humble suggestion would be to limit ticket purchases to ten per person or some other low, fair number so that even more students could have the chance of enjoying the movies here on campus. BYU has its faults like everything else, yet it is a swell place and the good things far outweigh the not-so-good. However, mass ticket sales have got to go.

Wymount list biased

To the Editor:

For the 1,700 students who paid $25 each to be on the Wymount waiting list and any others who want to live at Wymount, you may be interested in a new housing policy. As of April 1, all students living in Desert Towers and Helaman Halls were given priority over anyone currently on the Wymount waiting list. That's right, they get to move in first while everyone else waits 12 to 18 months. These are the requirements: One student in the couple must have been a resident of DT or Helaman Halls 30 days before getting married and he or she must have lived there for just one fall or winter semester.

These days everyone wants relief from the money-hungry landlords. For the students in DT or Helaman Halls, this new policy is like a dream come true. For the families currently on the waiting list, it is like a knife in the back.

How could the Housing Administration come up with such a biased and controversial policy?

As a married student, I have been on the list for 15 months and many others have been waiting longer. Understandably, I am upset. Treating the 1,700 students and families, who have been waiting patiently, like second-class students is entirely unfair.

For those who recently paid $25 (non-refundable) to get on the list — good luck! You may never get into Wymount before you graduate. I urge all those directly affected to make their feelings known and call Campus Housing (378-2611).

Stop and show respect

To the Editor:

Concerning the raising and lowering of the flag:

No matter how many problems it has, the United States of America is still the greatest nation on Earth. Its formation was divinely inspired, and those of you who are citizens do not have the right to toss aside so carelessly the freedoms and liberties that millions have died to protect. Ironically and unfortunately, these freedoms and liberties do give you the right.

If you do not have the decency or the common sense to stop during the daily playing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" and show a ounce of respect for your nation's banner and anthem, I pity you and your self-righteous arrogance.

Honor Code violation

To the Editor:

As I walked across campus last week, enjoying the sunshine and green grass, a few students caught my attention and caused me to remember the Honor Code, which we all signed before we began our studies here at BYU. I thought I would remind you all of a few items in the Honor Code, for those who have forgotten.

Quite a few students, mostly female, have forgotten where their knees are. Women on campus, I appeal to you — please, no shorts that come to your knee, so that if ever privileged to return to school while being a BYU employee, I might be able to wear shorts too. President Lee has warned before that he might take away the privilege, and frankly, after looking at you, I do blame him.

I know the standard argument is that you can't buy shorts for women that come to the knee. If you can't find them, sew them on them from pants to the proper length. They don't wear shorts that don't come to the knee. It's that simple. Oh, lest we forget, the length standard still applies to skirts too.

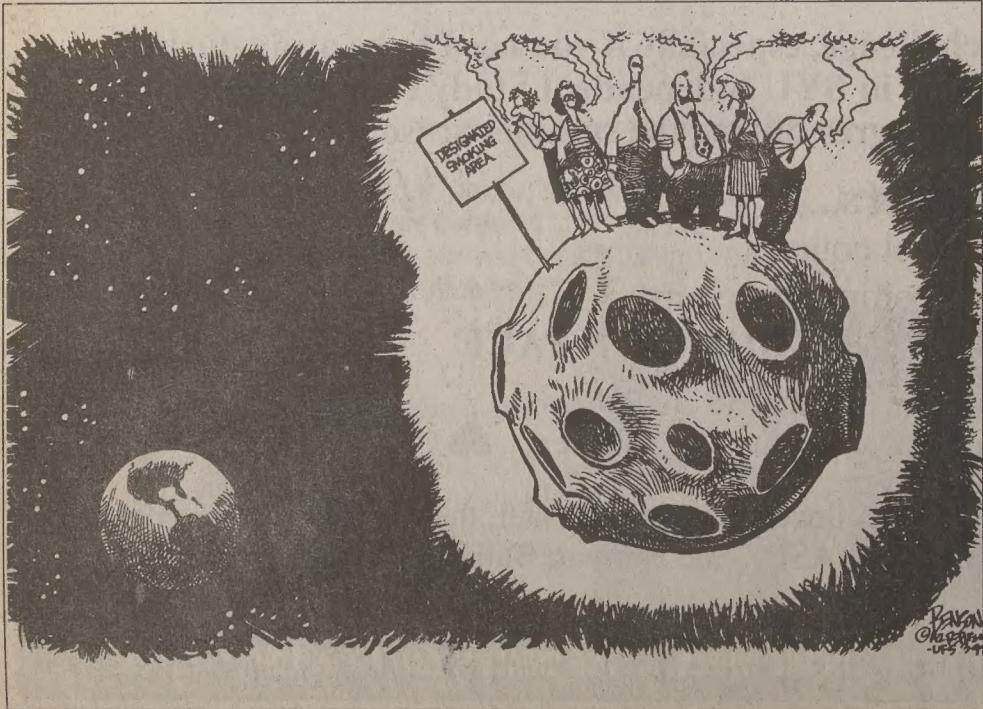

Here's another one for the women (mostly female, not some overzealous chauvinist). Sleeveless blouses and shirts are not acceptable. Just because your shirt has more coverage than a strap doesn't mean it's modest. Maybe you wear sleeveless blouses because you like to show off the straps of your new bra as you adjust your backpack. I believe me, we are not impressed. This is the same standard also applies to the new tight fitting T-shirts, which I remind you were from the '70s and haven't improved with fashion years.

Now for the men. I know some of you wear an earring think it makes you more masculine, more rebellious and therefore more of your individuality. I hope I speak for all women when I say that I find men in line and completely respect their individuality without the diamond stud, gold hoop or anything whatever. How are you going to explain that hole to your 12-year-old when he asks to know why he can't wear an earring? He's passing the sacrament, or to your priest class when they ask why you have a hole in your earlobe? Contrary to popular belief, your holes don't always grow back!

OK, I like long hair on some men, but in fact is, you signed an honor code. How many times do people have to harp on that until the realization sinks in that this is your individuality we are talking about? Leave the long hair for summers off and after graduation.

So now that I've reminded you all of basic concepts in the dress code, have a spring and summer, and please tan at home, not here.

Utah Symphony adds 'spice' to usual weekends in Utah

By LAURZIA LEE
Universe Lifestyle Writer

When people ask themselves what they are going to do for the weekend, the answer is often the movies or renting videos. But the Utah Symphony has undoubtedly become a community treasure, especially for struggling college students.

For just a few dollars more students can participate in a different and unique musical experience.

The Utah Symphony, which presents concerts featuring classical music and many guest entertainers, offers students discount tickets for only $5. Regular prices for concert tickets usually range from $10 to $32.

The symphony presents a different concert almost every weekend, providing students with an affordable alternative to the standard movie.

Individuals who want to make a good impression on a first date or just want a change from the ordinary might want to consider this opportunity.

Abravanel Hall in downtown Salt Lake City, where the symphony performs, is an elegant building complete with crystal chandeliers, which creates a romantic atmosphere for an evening out on the town with that special someone.

Semi-formal dress is requested by the symphony, which gives some people an excuse to dress up and make the evening even more unique.

Those individuals who do not consider themselves fans of classical music and quickly turn past KBYU on their radio dial need to experience the music live before making any judgments.

Overtures or concertos that may have made one yawn before come alive when the symphony starts to play.

The acoustics in the hall are outstanding, creating a sound sure to impress most anyone.

Classical concerts are only a part of what the symphony performs. The symphony also presents an Entertainment Series in which guest artists perform more contemporary music.

The Utah Symphony has many guest performers during each season.

This past season's guest performers have included many popular artists, such as former Tonight Show Band Leader Doc Severinsen, singers Tony Bennett and Maureen McGovern and violinist Itzhak Perlman. Perlman was one of the principal performers on the Academy Award-winning soundtrack from the motion picture "Schindler's List."

The symphony offers a rare opportunity for individuals to experience these talented and internationally known artists.

The next time the line for the movie theater extends to the parking lot and the desired show is sold out anyway, students should consider treating themselves and their dates to a new experience.

Tickets for the symphony may be purchased at the box office or ordered by phone at 533-6683.

Utah Opera invites singers to audition

By LAURZIA LEE
Universe Lifestyle Writer

Aspiring opera singers will have the opportunity to audition for Utah Opera April 20 and 22 when the opera holds open auditions.

Utah Opera invites open auditions for singing comprimario roles and supporting roles. Auditions will also be held for individuals interested in becoming a member of the Utah Opera Chorus or participating in the Young Artists Program.

"The Young Artists Program is a free, intensive three-month training session in all aspects of operatic performance," said Judith Frisbie-Goins, director of marketing and public relations.

Singers who wish to audition must prepare and memorize two contrasting selections. Each singer will be given six minutes to audition, and the opera will provide an accompanist.

Auditions are April 20 from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. and April 22 from 3 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the Promised Valley Playhouse in Salt Lake City.

Those interested should call Phyllis Sims at 534-0842 for an appointment.

Novel contest invites amateur writers, authors

By MARIAM FOUTZ
Universe Lifestyle Writer

A Utah writing group has the perfect contest for every author who has ever started a novel and has had difficulty getting past the first few pages.

The third annual "First 20 Pages of Your Novel Contest," sponsored by Wasatch Mountain Fiction Writers, is a contest open to unpublished novelists and gives authors the opportunity to improve their writing, said Charlene Raddon, WMFW member.

"We try and help people know what they are doing right and what they are doing wrong," Raddon said.

Categories in the contest include horror, romance, young adult, science fiction and fantasy, action and adventure, historical, mystery and mainstream. Entries must be postmarked by June 1. The entry fee is $10 per entry. Writers may enter as many times as they wish.

The novels will be judged by published authors and the winners will be announced at WMFW's fall workshop in October.

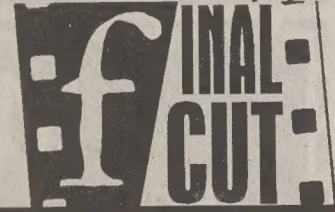

Winners of the contest will be awarded free admission to the WMFW fall workshop. The first place winner will receive a plaque, and second and third place winners will get certificates. If WMFW receives enough entrants it can expand the contest to include more prizes and winners, Raddon said.

The contest is small, receiving about 30-40 entries last year and receiving 15 so far this year.

WMFW is a chapter of the League of Utah Writers and began seven years ago after a group of writing students finished a class and didn't want to stop the feedback they received from meeting with each other. The group meets the first Friday of each month in the Holladay Library at 10 a.m. Visitors are welcome to attend.

To receive information about contest rules, writers should send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Wasatch Mountain Fiction Writers, 1816 Tramway Dr., Sandy, Utah, 84092. For more information call (801) 571-6482.

Netters shut out Utah State, 7-0

By MIKE SYLVESTER
Universe Sports Writer

All but two members of the BYU men's tennis team saw action against Utah State Monday as the Cougars shut out the Aggies 7-0 and extended their home win-streak to four.

Coach Jim Osborne said he was pleased that the lower part of the line-up was able to play and win.

"It's always good to have a match like this where you get a chance to play everybody," Osborne said. "I've been impressed with the lower part of the line-up—they've really been coming through."

BYU's next challenge will be taking on the University of Utah on Friday in Provo. The Utes defeated the Cougars on February 25 in Salt Lake City.

BYU took the singles point early against Utah State by winning all three doubles matches. The BYU doubles combinations were Lance Squire/Herman Vandecasteele, Paul Fairchild/Nathan Herbert and Craig

Manning/Mark Watkins.

In singles play, Boris Bosnjakovic replaced Vandecasteele in the No. 1 spot, winning the match 6-3, 6-4. Vandecasteele played doubles but sat out singles because of minor stomach pains.

At No. 2, BYU senior Micah Rideout won 6-2, 6-1.

In the third spot was Brian Hardin, who was extended to three sets after giving up a 4-1 first-set lead to lose the set 5-7.

Hardin said he lost his focus and began struggling with double-faults. He was shocked to find himself down so quickly.

"It taught me a lesson to keep concentrating," Hardin said.

The lesson was well learned as Hardin quickly came back to defeat his opponent 6-3, 6-2 in the following sets.

Winning for BYU in the bottom-three spots were Craig Manning (6-1, 6-1), Lance Squire (6-3, 6-1) and Paul Fairchild (6-4, 6-2).

BYU completed a four-game

Media Guide

BACKHAND: Micah Rideout shoots a backhand over the net.

California road trip on March 25, and Osborne said this game was important to get re-adjusted to the altitude and indoor courts of BYU before meeting the U.

A win against Utah could mean a second-seed spot for BYU in the WAC Tournament, to be held in Provo on May 4-7.

This year in the WAC, BYU lost to both Utah and New Mexico, but defeated contender Fresno State. Since Fresno State beat Utah earlier this year, a win over Utah on Friday would leave only New Mexico with a better WAC record than BYU.

BYU's 3-4 loss to the Utes came without 20+ game-winner Boris Bosnjakovic. This time all of BYU's starters are healthy.

"With Boris in the line-up we're going to be a much stronger team," Rideout said.

Osborne said besides deciding WAC Tournament seeding, there is an emotional aspect to the Utah match that separates it from other matches and makes it important to the players.

"You don't have to get ready mentally to play Utah because it's such a big game emotionally."

Rideout said the Utah game is especially big to him because he is from Salt Lake City and was a former student of the Utes' head coach, F.D. Robins.

Most expensive ML baseball lineup named for 1994-1995

Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — The most expensive lineup on opening day would cost a team $48.7 million, $16 million more than the best team, according to a salary survey by The Associated Press.

The cost of the most-expensive lineup is up just 2.6 percent over the $47,475,000 that the highest-paid batting order cost last year. Many players with multiyear contracts deliberately took cuts this year in anticipation of a possible work stoppage.

The pitcher on the highest-paid team is AL Cy Young Award winner Jack McDowell. The Chicago White Sox right-hander, who replaced the Mets' Dwight Gooden on the list, will get $5.3 million after losing in arbitration.

Benito Santiago of the Florida Marlins repeats at catcher. At $3.8 million, he is the lowest-paid player in the lineup.

Rafael Palmeiro, who signed with the Baltimore Orioles as a free agent, is the first baseman at $5,469,479. He replaces Will Clark, who left the San Francisco Giants to sign with the Texas Rangers.

Ryne Sandberg of the Chicago Cubs ($6,299,966) repeats at second base, and Cal Ripken of the Baltimore Orioles ($5,665,822) replaces Cincinnati's Barry Larkin at shortstop. Bobby Bonilla of the New York Mets ($6.3 million), moved to third base this season, becomes the top paid player at that position, replacing Kelly Gruber.

HEADS DOWN, THUMBS UP: While Coach Krzyzewski of Duke was looking for his third national title in 32 years, President Clinton was giving his Razorbacks the thumbs up for their big victory.

Arkansas beats Duke for its 1st title

Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Big Nasty basketball forward Corliss Williamson, known as Big Nasty to his coach and teammates, scored 23 points and grabbed eight rebounds in yesterday night and was selected the outstanding player in the Razorbacks' 65-63 victory in the NCAA championship.

The 6-foot-7, 245-pound Williamson was more than Duke's frontcourt could handle, although the Razorbacks made him earn every point. He came in shooting 71 percent from the field in the previous NCAA tournament game, but was 10-for-24 Monday.

Coach Nolan Richardson calls his team "the strongest player in the universe" pound for pound, and he looked the part. Whether he was guarded by Cherokee Parks or Erik Meek, who shot 6-11, Williamson was able to come up with one big play after another, especially in the closing moments.

Williamson made a follow shot with 10 seconds to play to give the Razorbacks a 63-61 lead. He trailed by 10 early in the second half — a 61-56 lead. The Razorbacks made a surge a short time later, getting consecutive 3-pointers from Chris Collins to take a 63-62 lead. Then Corey Beck made two free throws and Williamson made one to make it 65-63.

Duke tied it at 65 with 41/2 minutes left before Williamson took things into his hands on consecutive possessions. He scored inside to give the Razorbacks the lead, then widened the margin to five with a beautiful three-point play.

On that play, Dwight Stewart tried a 3-pointer, but his shot was deflected by Grant Hill. Williamson, standing with his back to the shooter, out-jumped Parks to grab the ball and then went up and was fouled by Jeff Capel.

As Richardson walked across the court after the game the Arkansas fans shouted "Nol-an, Nol-an."

Richardson brought Arkansas to the 1990 national semifinals where they were beaten by Duke. He was in search of what he called his coaching triple crown — he won the junior college national title with Western Texas in 1980 and the NIT with Tulsa the next season.

The Razorbacks got him that third title by overcoming poor shooting with tenacious defense that forced Duke into 23 turnovers. The defense was at its best when Arkansas rebounded from the 48-38 deficit with a 16-4 run. Duke went four minutes without scoring and in that span the Blue Devils missed five shots and committed five turnovers.

Duke finally righted itself to tie the game at 54 with 10:16 left. From there, there were three lead changes and two ties, the last at 70-70 when Hill nailed a 3-pointer with 1:30 left.

Arkansas called a timeout and when the Razorbacks returned to the court they had trouble getting an open shot. As the shot clock ticked down, Thurman finally let one go from the right side, giving the Razorbacks the lead for good. They closed the game by going 3-for-6 from the free throw line while Duke missed two shots, including an ill advised 3-pointer by Chris Collins with 24 seconds left and the Blue Devils down 74-70.

Corliss Williamson led Arkansas with 23 points, while Thurman and Corey Beck had 15 each.

Hill finished with 12 points, 14 rebounds and six assists. Antonio Lang, another senior, led Duke with 15 points and Jeff Capel and Cherokee Parks, whose status wasn't known until Monday morning because of a swollen knee, each had 14 points.

WE'RE NOT HAVING AN ANNIVERSARY SALE.

It's not that we're trying to discourage business. We just don't believe in "sales." Never have.

When I started Wilson Diamonds 19 years ago, I was determined I wouldn't play games with my customers. No haggling over prices. No "faked" sales. No pressure of any kind. I felt we could earn the loyalty of our customers by consistently offering the lowest prices on quality diamonds all year long — guaranteed. Couples get engaged every week, not just at certain times of the year. They all should get a great price on rings. So far, we've done pretty well. Even when other jewelers are holding their "Super-Hyped, Any-Excuse-Will-Do Sales," thousands of couples still choose Wilson Diamonds. They know we don't jack up the prices one time; then lower them another.

We won't kid you into thinking a ring is half price by holding a "sale" — with balloons and stuff. So, if we won't do that the rest of the year, you know we won't do it on our anniversary. Which gives you a great reason to celebrate.

PRINCIPLES of SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

UNFORTUNATELY, THIS IS WHERE PEOPLE ARE PUTTING TOO MANY RETIREMENT DOLLARS.

Every year, a lot of people make a huge mistake on their taxes. They don't take advantage of tax deferral and wind up sending Uncle Sam money they could be saving for retirement.

Fortunately, that's a mistake you can easily avoid with TIAA-CREF SRAs. SRAs not only ease your current tax-bite, they offer a remarkably easy way to build retirement income—especially for the "extras" that your regular pension and Social Security benefits may not cover. Because your contributions are made in before-tax dollars, you pay less taxes now. And since all earnings on your SRA are tax-deferred as well, the money you don't send to Washington works even harder for you. Down the road, that can make a dramatic difference in your quality of life.

What else makes SRAs so special? A range of allocation choices—from the guaranteed security of TIAA to the diversified investment accounts of CREF's variable annuity—all backed by the nation's number one retirement system.

Why write off the chance for a more rewarding retirement? Call today and learn more about how TIAA-CREF SRAs can help you enjoy many happy returns.

Benefit now from tax deferral. Call our SRA hotline 1 800-842-2733, ext. 8016.

TIAA CREF

Ensuring the future for those who shape it.™

CREF certificates are distributed by TIAA-CREF Individual and Institutional Services. For more complete information, including charges and expenses, call 1 800-842-2733, ext. 8016 for a prospectus. Read the prospectus carefully before you invest or send money.

it went out of print. He located a copy in a Los Angeles library, read the book, and wanted to turn it into a film, she said.
After receiving contract offers through Larkin from several production companies, the Wixoms released the story to CBS because the company agreed to allow their input and review of the script.
Although the Wixoms have read the script, tonight will be their first viewing of the movie. According to Wixom, the TV rendition is not a documentary — it joins characters in order to tell the story in 76 minutes.
The Wixoms are recording the movie for their son Kameron, a survivor of the ordeal, who is serving in the Spain, Bilbao mission.
The Wixoms have received invitations to appear on daytime talk shows such as Oprah, Donahue and Maury Povich.
Wixom said she will appear on Oprah and Povich if she can get some of the children (who are now college age) to also appear on the show and share their experience.

nations, Taylor said.
"It was a useful role, but I don't think it was an imagined role," he said.
With all the tension in the world, the United Nations allows government leaders quick consultations during emergencies, forums to discuss long-term problems and an impartial third party to help solve disputes, according to U.N. literature.
U.N. agencies also protect refugees, deliver food aid and respond quickly to natural disasters.
The United Nations is meant to carry out decisions and agreements between states, but it is powerless when it goes against the will of a nation's government, Taylor said.
"Most countries have been happy to have a multilateral organization, and it must serve their national interests to some degree or the United Nations would not have lasted for nearly 50 years, nor still have almost every country as a member," Taylor said.
Over the years, specialized branches of the United Nations have developed in order to deal with humanitarian and developmental aid. These branches have been able to help countries obtain safe drinking water, create safer air traffic laws, loan countries money for development and combat diseases.
The Food and Agriculture

Organization has found special breeds of animals that produce larger litters and can survive in the hot and poorer nations of the south, said John Rourke, in his book "International Politics on the World Stage."
Chios sheep in the Aegean islands and Fayoumi chicken of Egypt are breeds that produce well and withstand heat, and Taihu pigs of China can produce litters nearly twice the size of Western breeds of pigs, he said.
U.N. military forces are deployed to high-tension areas and can promote security by standing as neutral buffers and creating norms against aggression, Taylor said.
U.N. operations are costly, but all nations are required to bear the financial burden. However, 13 nations pay for 4/5 of the total U.N. budget, amounting to more than $1 billion, according to U.N. reports.
Because so many countries are late with payments or default, the United Nations is under continual financial stress, especially as member states have increased demands. This is especially true for peacekeeping ventures, U.N. literature said.
The United Nations reports that it employs nearly 4,800 staff members from 160 countries at the United Nations New York headquarters, and 9,100 more around the world.
